

Do you identify as LGBTQ? Have you seen a counselor, therapist, or psychologist? We'd like to know more about your experience.

Participate in a research study seeking to understand your experience of counseling or therapy as an LGBTQ Person.

I am a lesbian researcher at the University of Massachusetts Boston who studies LGBTQ issues. I want to better understand experiences that LGBTQ people in South Africa have had with counselors or therapists. In this study, I am interviewing LGBTQ people who have been in mental health treatment (for at least 2 sessions) to learn more about their experience.

To Participate: You must identify as LGBTQ and be over 18 years of age. Participation can be done online through videoconferencing, by phone, or in person. March 11-April 5.

Benefits: If selected, travel expense will be reimbursed ($10.00). Estimated one hour. Also, you may learn more about yourself and develop new insights about your experience, and your participation may benefit LGBTQ people in the future. The study was approved by University of Massachusetts Boston Institutional Review Board (#2018231).

Contact Sharon Horne, PhD at sharon.horne@umb.edu or +1 9012300422

(what's app)